West Valley kids enjoyed a day of fun and hockey with Coyotes Charities

CPLC receives $5,000 from Coyotes Charities to support youth summer program

Phoenix— For the second time this year, West Valley kids had the opportunity to learn the tricks of the game of hockey and enjoyed a day of healthy fun. Coyotes Charities stopped by CPLC Carl Hayden Community Center yesterday to donate hockey gear, and encourage them to be more active by doing healthy activities such as sports.

“Coyotes Charities mission aligns with Chicanos Por La Causa’s interests in promoting healthier and safer communities. We appreciate their continued support of our youth and programs. Our communities are stronger everyday thanks to their direct support to children,” said Edmundo Hidalgo, President and CEO of CPLC.

Recently, CPLC received a $5,000 grant from Coyote Charities to help support the summer program at CPLC Carl Hayden Community Center located at 3216 W. Van Buren in Phoenix. These funds help assure that West Valley youth will be able to take advantage of a program that, for years, has been educating through the arts. Youth will be engaged in the ARCO Enrichment Summer Program which promotes healthy development through building self esteem and resiliency skills for youth ages 7-17 including physical activity, arts education, photography, poetry, and painting murals.

CPLC Carl Hayden Community Center empowers youth and parents to engage in positive community activities. The center offers an after school program, recreational activities, tutoring support services, computer and financial literacy for adults and other educational programs.
